法国实践：品牌活动策划

THE SYMPHONY OF BUBBLES

围绕 Veuve Clicquot 品牌进行活动概念策划与视觉表达。从品牌特征与目标用户出发，建立活动主题、视觉语言与传播方向，并通过版式、图像及字体构建整体视觉氛围。

法国实践：品牌活动策划

THE SYMPHONY OF BUBBLES

The Core Group: Urban Nomads

Active in high-density cities with high social mobility, yet facing an emotional "spatial deficit." For them, life is often in a state of "transition" and "permanently unfinished."

In a highly mobile urban life, existence is often in a "temporary" and "transitional" state. As physical ownership and spaciousness become out of reach, u sers face a severe deficit of emotional security. Design is no longer about square meters, but about reconstructing stability through vision and touch am idst this uncertainty.

Surrounded by sleek screens and cold architectural interfaces, individuals develop a biological "skin hunger." The home now functions as a "psychological buffer zone," using cocooning forms and natural textures to block out external high-pressure noise, allowing the weary body to be truly "held" by sensory comfort.

While the external world champions hardness and efficiency, users seek a "soft resistance" through micro-rituals. The warmth of a light or the curve of a rug becomes a tool to reclaim sovereignty over life. This design is essentially an emotional vessel, allowing individuals to shed their social armor and achieve self-healing and reconnection within their vulnerability.

User & Sociological Insight: Seeking Emotional Anchors

MY PROFESSIONAL PROJECT

Experiences

Although I am still in the learning phase. I have already started:Participating in arts project planning courses and team collaboration exercises.Independently completing painting commissions to understand the client-contractor collaboration process.Analyzing the operation modes of exhibitions and art institutions to understand the structure of the cultural industry chain.Self-training in visual style and narrative methods.These experiences have made me realize that: Before passion becomes a career, it requires methods, structure, and an understanding of reality.

Target Position

Art/Game Cross-Border Project Planner

Why this path?

Because I realized that "liking art" is not a reason, but a starting point.I don't want to live only in ideals, nor be trapped in reality making compromises.I want to find a way to connect the two: To connect artistic creation with society.To enable mutual understanding between works and audiences.To make inspiration sustainable, rather than relying on emotional exhaustion.Therefore, my career goal is not just to "enter the industry",but to find a position where I can maintain my passion while learning to grow.

Arts Management or Cultural Planning at the Intersection of Art and the Game
Game Art Project • Exhibition / IP Management • Creative Direction

Field

WHO AM I?

My name is Xu Xuan, a student exploring my self-positioning in the field of arts management.During my growth, I have evolved from someone who used to suppress expression into a person willing to understand myself, observe the world, and reflect on meaning.To me, art is not a pile of skills, but a way of interacting with the real world and a channel for me to feel vitality.

Personality

I am an "intrinsically motivated" person — curiosity drives me forward more than outcomes. Sensitive and reflective in personality, highly perceptive of the emotional flow of people and things. I crave connection yet respect distance; I am willing to understand others and strive to be understood. In learning and creation, I tend to seek a balance between structure, methodology, and emotion.

Strengths

Basic knowledge of arts management & project planning .Copywriting and visual storytelling abilities. Art theoretical thinking and critical analysis skills.Strong emotional insight into art projects & acute perception of audience experience.Currently learning multiple languages

Values

Sincerity is more important than perfection.Creation is not about consuming pain, but about healing, transformation, and witness. Art and reality should illuminate each other, not deviate from one another.Ideal and reality need not negate each other; they can negotiate and coexist

Interests

Painting, narrative creation, character design.Game culture and worldview construction. Contemporary art exhibitions & operation modes of art institutions.Observing the relationship between people and social structures

One-sentence self-summary:

"I am becoming someone who can embrace both sensitivity and strength, allowing ideals to find a place in reality."

With sensitivity as the boat and structure as the oars, seek the possibility of growth at the junction of art and reality.

Charlotte Perrian

Choosing Charlotte Perriand as our creative compass, the core lies in inheriting her pioneering experiments in "functionalism" and "micro-living." Her philosophy that furniture should serve human behavior rather than mere decoration provides the foundation for solving modern small-space pain points.

Beyond Walls: A Nomadic Sanctuary for Micro-Living

As global urbanization accelerates, living space per capita continues to shrink. The challenge we face is not just a lack of physical space, but the loss of "psychological solitude" amidst high-pressure urban life.

We combined the comfort of the classic LC4-style lounge with a modern acoustic hood. The design centerpiece is the foldable arched canopy—it's not just a visual screen, but a "meditation capsule" crafted from acoustic materials, creating a private realm without the need for physical walls.

The home of the future will no longer be defined by real estate square footage, but by "sensory experience." This design achieves the "nomadism of furniture," allowing users to reshape their own dignified boundaries of life at any time, even in shared spaces or micro-apartments.
